

What to bring to Svartådalen – The Black River Valley in Sweden

We're moving in forests and along lakesides and wetlands. On some parts of the trip we have to cross water, hence Wellington boots are needed. The optimal choice is to bring a pair of hiking boots as well.

In spring the days are long and the nights often too short to really get yesterday's wet boots really dry and warm again.

Weather in springtime can include both sunny, warm days around +20° C, and nippy early mornings with centigrades below zero. A warm jacket, longjohns, and a woolen sweater is good to keep you warm.

Warm gloves/ mittens are recommended, so is a warm cap, hood and scarves.

Mosquito repellent and sunscreen is recommended, from May on. Don't hesitate to bring your camera. There will be plenty of good chances to take pictures on for instance Ural Owls. Even without long lenses.

You don't have to bring any flask/ thermos/ bottles. We cater for hot and cold drinks on all our excursions.

Towels and sheets are included in the accommodation price.

Very welcome/ Daniel
